AMENDED PROTECTIVE ORDER

The United States has moved for a protective order limiting the use of discovery materials in this case. Good cause having been shown, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED THAT:

1. The contents of the discovery materials produced by the United States to the defendant in this case (discovery materials) shall not be disclosed in any form to any other person by defense counsel except to members of defendant's trial team (co-counsel, paralegals, investigators, translators, litigation support personnel, the defendant, secretarial staff, and experts retained to assist in the preparation of the defense), and then only for the specific purposes relating to defending the client in this case.

2. Unless expressly authorized by this Court, no information derived from the discovery materials which are the subject of this order may be disclosed to any individual or entity for any other use.

3. Neither the United States nor defendant's trial team shall disclose the actual or cover names of any undercover government employee or government source involved in this case at any time, including in any public court filing or hearing in open court.

4. The defendant's trial team shall store and maintain custody of the discovery materials, and any materials derivative of the discovery materials, in a secure place and use reasonable care to ensure that these materials are not disclosed to third persons in violation of this Protective Order.

1 5. Each of the individuals to whom disclosure of discovery materials is made shall
2 be provided a copy of this Protective Order, and will be advised that he or she shall not further
3 disseminate the discovery materials except by the express direction of counsel of record or co-
4 counsel in this matter.

5 6. Each individual to whom such disclosure is made shall review this Protective
6 Order and defense counsel shall keep a record of those to whom disclosure is made.

7 7. Defense counsel shall notify the United States if anyone on the defendant's trial
8 team makes copies of any of the audio or video recordings produced to the defense by the United 9 States in this case, as well as the number of copies made of any particular recording. At the 10 conclusion of this criminal matter, defense counsel shall return to the United States all discovery
11 materials and any copies thereof. Defense counsel shall destroy any material that is derivative of 12 the discovery material other than attorney work product.

13 8. Nothing in paragraph seven (7) shall be construed to prohibit the defendant's trial
14 team from uploading the discovery materials to an office computer network provided that: 1)
15 those persons on the defendant's trial team having access to the files containing the discovery
16 materials have read this Protective Order; and, 2) all copies of the discovery materials are deleted
17 from the computer network at the conclusion of this matter.

18 9. A willful violation of this Protective Order shall constitute criminal contempt of 19 Court for which sanctions are provided by law. The parties who agree to receive information
20 subject to this Order agree that this Court has jurisdiction to enter this Order.

21 10. The Protective Order entered in this case on February 21, 2013 is hereby vacated.
